Foiling is no longer routine—it's design.

Dimension Reimagined is a two-day Keune Academy workshop built for advanced colorists ready to leave default placements behind and create dimensional services that are intentional, flattering, and profitable.

Day 1, you'll dive into advanced placement theory: light vs. dark dominance, shadow play, and contrast shape perception. You'll explore depth zones, density, and face shape considerations before applying these insights in a head mapping workshop. The day closes with live demos of two contrasting approaches—one soft and commercial, the other bold and fashion-forward—proving how strategy transforms results.

Day 2, it's all about hands-on execution. Using your mapped design, you'll foil and tone mannequins under expert guidance from George and Gaby. Expect coaching, refinement tips, and toning strategies, followed by a group review where you'll compare results, share insights, and lock in a new mindset: strategy over routine. This is more than foiling—it's designing with intention, building profitability, and elevating your artistry.

Why You Should Attend:

- Learn advanced placement theory & design principles
- Build customized head mapping blueprints for real clients
- Watch live demos contrasting commercial vs. fashion-forward placements
- Execute your own mapped design in a guided hands-on session

Walk away with sharpened vision, elevated skills, and the strategies to make dimensional color your most profitable service. You're not just foiling hair—you're reimagining dimension.
